Where Heaven Meets Hell, a Slightly Surreal Slum, and the Wonders of the Silk Road

Paul Davison ARPS, DPAGB

Paul is a Winchester-based freelance photographer and a member of WPS.

He has travelled extensively and this has led him to specialise in travel photography.

Although it's often incredible landscapes that make people want to travel, it's the culture and the native people that he finds the most rewarding.

He loves to take candid photos of people going about their everyday life.

If you can take an image that can relay the essence of a culture to the viewer then it will have achieved everything a good travel image should.
